1.0 Legal Landscape

The Health and Safety (First-Aid) Regulations 1981 require employers to provide adequate and appropriate equipment, facilities and personnel to ensure their employees receive immediate attention if they are injured or taken ill at work. The regulations apply to all workplaces including those with less than five employees and to the self-employed.

The Regulations do not place a legal duty on the UTC to make first-aid provision for non-employees such as the public or students, however the UTC complies with the HSE guidance to include such stakeholders in an assessment of first-aid needs to ensure provision is made for them.

2.0 Policy

The purpose of this policy is to create a framework to ensure that Watford UTC:

- Complies with its duties and extended duty of care to all stakeholders as detailed in the regulations
- Undertakes a first aid risk assessment of need to identify provision requirements
- Provides resources, updates, and training to meet the outcome of the assessment
- Makes employees and stakeholders aware of the arrangements for First Aid
- Reviews suitability of the provision on a regular basis

3.0 Arrangements

3.1 Definitions

First Aid

The assistance given to any person suffering a sudden illness or injury, with care provided to preserve life, prevent the condition from worsening, and/or promote recovery.

Appointed Person

When an employer's first-aid needs assessment indicates that a first-aider is unnecessary, the minimum requirement is to appoint a person to take charge of first-aid arrangements. The roles of this appointed person include looking after the first-aid equipment and facilities and calling the emergency services when required. They can also provide emergency cover, within their role and competence, where a first-aider is absent due to unforeseen circumstances

First Aider

Someone who has undertaken training appropriate to the circumstances. They must hold a valid certificate of competence in either:

- first aid at work
- emergency first aid at work
- any other level of training or qualification that is appropriate to the circumstances

The Health & Safety Officer conducts a first aid risk assessment of need on annual basis. The outcome of the assessment will identify the required provision for the year ahead in regard to first aid. The assessment will cover areas such as:
